

Language Ambassadors

Profile

ROY ALLKIN

Occupation: Director

Company: Wolfestone Translation Ltd

Degree/University: MBA, Swansea University

Languages spoken (native and learned): English (native), French (learned)

“Learning languages makes you stand out from the crowd when it comes to employment. If two people are interviewed for a job and have exactly the same experience and qualifications but one can also speak another language, it gives that person a distinct advantage. The global marketplace aided by the development of the internet means that languages are ever more important.”

“My company, Wolfestone Translation, is a complete language solutions provider. Every one of our employees is a linguist, not just our language professionals but also our sales staff, marketing staff, multimedia staff, etc. Despite what some people would have you believe, English is not the be all and end all when it comes to communication and business. My staff are exceptionally talented at what they do, but they are also dedicated linguists who use their languages on a day to day basis.”

Web:

www.wolfestone.co.uk

Email:

ambassadors@soton.ac.uk